"Kirsty from Island Spirit has a lot of spirit in her. She's bubbly. Her passion for travel is infectious and she is a living example that it is possible to have a great company that gives you a really good quality of life was also positively contributing to the communities that she works in.

Kirsty shares in this very frank conversation, her life journey of how she came upon the idea of setting up an eco-travel agency when it wasn't that fashionable to do. And what 'eco' means to her and to the people she works with, the people who work for her, the communities she visits as well as the people who travel with her.

So sit back and get affected by this amazing story of Kirsty about how she created Island Spirits and what's in store for her as well."

Our Ongoing Grassroots Projects

Recycling in Hiriketiya, Southern Sri Lanka

20 Pairs of Glasses for outer island villagers

Date: July 2018

Value: $110 (£40)

Raised by the father of a guest and distributed to Lavena and Vidawa villages.

92 more pairs bought in 2019! As I type, our last minute, 2019 glasses campaign has raised £157 on Facebook and by word of mouth. We're so excited to go back and deliver sight to our friends on Taveuni.

Muthu's Shop, Rekawa, Southern Sri Lanka

In 2018 we opened a small shop for Muthu in her and her husband's lodge in South Sri Lanka. She approached me mentioning she'd like to raise her own money.

She has told me that she sees their tourists come and go and our freedom is inspiring to her. In fact, she's told me that's what she loves about my life, I'm free.

We often discuss this and so I tell her the reality; I'm 40 years old and have no children, life can be lonely and travelling with business exhausting.

But it's true, she's not free to come and go, do as she pleases. That's all she wants.

So this small shop has been blessed by Dishan, her husband and she can keep the profit. It's independent now so I'm not managing it, it's up to them but I hope it's given her a step up in the direction she wants.

Belmont High School, Geelong, Melbourne, Australia
The team from Belmont High School, came to Fiji again with Island Spirit in June 2018. This was their fourth visit, this time with 12 students and three staff.

We all had a great time travelling the islands, and donating materials fundraised from the students school fayres, tuck shops, sausage sizzles and other community events. Eleven HP laptops were donated to Kocoma school.

The students were immersed in rural, island life some camped and most of the time they stayed with local families who were paid $FJD60 pppn They were al challenged with painting a school in South Taveuni.

Future Grassroots Projects

We are looking forward to introducing upcycling plastic to make modern art in Fiji.

Teaching English and sharing skills with the weavers on Taveuni. Our local network in Fiji and Sri Lanka often ask us directly to help them. Marcia is an international yoga guide and Reiki healer who began her journey in the United States. She fell in love with the practice of yoga while studying psychology and spiritual philosophies in college. Her academic career propelled her into the physical aspects of yoga and she has since been pursuing the path. She now travels globally teaching about the spiritual elements that have transformed her life in accompaniment with the healing of asana; yoga postures.

Marcia completed 200hr and 300hr teacher trainings, kids yoga certification, and attunement to the Reiki Master Symbol. Her future plans revolve around deepening her personal practice and sharing the gifts of her labours. She's familiar with guiding in studio class, donation-based park events, and retreats hosting.

Her strengths include inviting people to be more comfortable in their own authentic expressions and leading by example. She values her time in nature where she can connect to the elemental energies of wind, earth, fire, and water. She's a lover of life, children, plants, fruits, and animals.

Jess, our new Marketing and Sales Manager: "I met Kirsty and had my first experience with Island Spirit 2 and a half years ago. I really needed some time out from the pace of London life, to reset and reconnect, so a week of yoga and surfing in Sri Lanka sounded very appealing. It turned out to be so much more than I expected and ever could have imagined. From staying with a local Sri Lankan family, to having fantastic surf and yoga instructors, the people in Sri Lanka truly are the heart and soul of an already absolutely stunning country. What really struck me about the week I spent in Sri Lanka was the truly personal, tailored experience that Kirsty made possible by running such a genuinely honest business. Every part of my trip had locals involved and I could see that the money I had paid was going directly back to Sri Lankan people and families, which is something I had never experienced before and really wanted to be a part of. The local knowledge and friendships that Kirsty has built over the years means I truly had an authentic island experience, one that I highly doubt I could have experienced any other way.

I'm so excited to be joining two fantastic women to help grow Island Spirit and share our knowledge and skills. I genuinely believe that we can work to make the world a better place and enjoy immersive cultural experiences, to really grow and learn from one another. I'd love to get as many people involved as possible and share such exciting adventures and memorable experiences."
